Measures for prevention of fire accidents

315. SHRI KALPNATH RAI: Will the Minister of HOME AFFAIRS be pleased to state:

(a) whether the results of the investigations made into the causes of fire accidents that took place during the last three years in the capital in multi-storeyed buildings, hotels and other public premises have been studied; and

(b) whether any long-term and short term measures have been undertaken to prevent such fire accidents in future in the capital?

THE MINISTER OF STATE OF THE MINISTRY OF COMMUNICATIONS AND IN THE MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS (SHRI RAM NIWAS MIRDHA): (a) In the year 1983 after the Gopala Tower's fire, the Fire Advisory Committee headed by Major General Singhal was given a list of about 220 multi-storey buildings in Delhi for the purpose of recommending fire safety measures in these buildings. The Committee has inspected the buildings and made recommendations on the mandatory fire prevention and fire safety precautions to be adhered to by the owners/occupiers of the multi-storey buildings. These recommendations were also submitted to Government.

(b) The recommendations have been accepted. The owners/occupiers of the multi-storey buildings have been directed to comply with the specific steps to be taken for ensuring fire safety of their respective buildings.

The Building Bye Laws, 1983 did not confer statutory authority for enforcing compliance of its mandatory provisions. During the current session of Parliament, it is proposed to introduce legislation on fire prevention and fire safety which will empower the Delhi Fire Services to take action against illegal occupation in buildings which continue to be insecure against fire.

Empanelment of officers for promotion at the Centre

319. SHRI CHIMANBHAI MEHTA : Will the PRIME MINISTER be pleased to state :

(a) whether Government are aware that while some State cadres are heavily represented in the Central Ministries, there are others which have practically no representation at the senior levels, if so, what remedial measures are envisaged to remove this imbalance;

(b) whether the decision for empanelment of officers for promotion in Centre be jointly prepared by the Central Government and the State Governments is being implemented, if not, what are the reasons therefor; and

(c) what opportunity is given to those officers who are not included in the panel?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF PERSONNEL, PUBLIC GRIEVANCES AND PENSIONS ( SHRI P. CHIDAMBARAM) : (a) Each State Cadre of the Indian Administrative Service (IAS) has a Central Deputation Reserve (CDR) representing 40% of the number of senior duty posts of that Cadre. Efforts are always made to ensure that the CDR of each State Cadre is fully utilized and adequate representation of each State Cadre at the different levels at the Centre is achieved. However, as each senior post at the Centre is filled with due regard to its job requirements and the qualifications/ experience of all eligible officers available at the time the vacancy arises, it is not always possible to achieve representation of each Cadre to the desired level. However, a fair and balanced representation for all Cadres is one of the objectives kept in mind while making postings.

(b) As part of the on-going administrative reforms tke feasibility of having a common assessment of suitability of IAS officers for senior posts both at the Centre and in the States is being examined. No decision has been taken so far.

(c) At present, there is a system of empanelment of IAS officers for appointment to posts at the level of Joint Secretary and above. IAS officers who are not empanelled for appointment to posts at a particular level at the Centre, cannot be appointed to such posts till they are empanelled. Such officers could however, continue in their own Cadres.
